

- ▶ Markets plummeted despite central bank efforts to cushion the economic impact of the coronavirus. The absence of an ECB rate cut (markets had priced a 10bp depo cut), the ECB's concerns on the outlook and Lagarde's Q&A answer that "we are not here to close spreads" intensified stock market losses and a spike in euro area sovereign risk premia.
- ▶ Volatility jumped to 2008 highs and global stock markets sunk, with larger daily losses than in 2008/09.
- ▶ The ECB delivered a package to ensure abundant market liquidity and to guarantee that credit continues to flow to the broad economy. In particular, it increased the appeal of its TLTRO-III loans, announced a temporary envelope of additional net asset purchases of €120 billion and adapted supervisory requirements on banks.
- ▶ The Fed also announced liquidity injections amid signs of stress in Treasury and funding markets. It will make $1.5tn available through three repo loans and it will widen the maturity spectrum of its monthly $60bn Treasury purchases.
